

DRIFFIELD SHOW

16TH JULY • 2025

As one of the UK's premier agricultural events, we are keeping a close eye on the evolving situation surrounding Bluetongue and the guidance being issued by the Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA).

At present, it is still unclear how any future movement restrictions might affect our preparations for this year's Show. No definitive legislation has been confirmed as yet, so we are continuing to monitor developments closely.

Should you submit an entry and later find that new regulations prevent your attendance due to movement restrictions, you will receive a full refund. Please note that all other cancellations will continue to be managed in line with our standard terms and conditions.

Please remember that any decisions regarding animal movement or testing requirements lie with Defra and APHA, not with the Show organisers.
